Fourayes Aseptic fruit purees for consistent quality, the option of provenance and significant cost advantages.

Advantages of Fourayes Aseptic fruit purees

All Fourayes Aseptic fruit purees are ready to use straight away; no further processing is required, which means your costs can be controlled.

Although all Fourayes Aseptic products can be frozen if required, Fourayes Aseptic Bramley apple puree can be transported ambient whilst other Fourayes Aseptic fruit purees are chilled.

As a result, Aseptic purees can be stored in an ambient or chilled warehouse, eliminating the need for costly frozen storage. Additional handling can also be avoided by storing the product in a warehouse close to production facilities. Chilled or ambient Aseptic fruit purees are always production-ready, to meet the demands of short-deadline production.

All Fourayes Aseptic fruit purees are 'flash-cooked' and immediately cooled to maintain colour quality and flavour.

Aseptic means no preservatives – a major benefit for product labelling - and all Fourayes Aseptic fruit purees offer consistency through a technically advanced process and packaging tailored to customer needs.
